FACTORY OUTLETS

A RAGING FASHION TREND

There is no doubt about the fact that India's Gen Next is increasingly becoming LABEL-CONSCIOUS. However, there is an underlying issue, as a fair share of this Gen Next pool of shoppers are either college students, career beginners or young professionals with a considerably low disposable income.

Here comes the role of Retail Factory Outlets.

Besides usual retail outlets positioned on high streets and malls, another place where shoppers can buy products are the factory outlets, which is fast turning into another retail format. This format offers branded goods at a reasonable price, ranging from 30 to 70 per cent lesser than the normal retail price. Brand-craving consumers prefer these outlets as they get products with brand tags at an affordable price range.

At the same time, retail factory outlets are profitable because of low operating costs, limited services, low rents, and elimination of the distributor or retailer links in the distribution chain. Retail Factory Outlet Owners have supreme control of their outlet, and can run the store in their own way with respect to visibility, prices, promotion, and inventory.

Outlet stores make money by selling merchandise at discounted prices. Such stores make money by sourcing products at a significantly lower price than what they sell to the end customer. Factory outlets sell first-quality merchandise directly to the public, eliminating the middleman. Outlet stores can carry a variety of high-end products at a more affordable price. Some factory outlets also sell "seconds" at a discount. Investing in Value Retail Factory Outlets make sense as they provide established brand recognition, proven business model, access to training & support, marketing & advertising assistance, economies of scale, exclusive territories, operational support, reduced business risk, track record of success, faster return on investment and adaptability to market trends.

The concept of factory outlets came to India from overseas markets like Singapore, Hongkong, Thailand, Europe, and US. Fashion is all about sizes and styles and changes within a short span of time and this is where factory outlet serves as a way of selling the overrun products. This concept is in fact prevailing across the globe where there are huge malls of factory outlets outside the city. In branded apparel business, globally and in India approximately 15 to 20 per cent of the business comes from the factory outlet business.

Retail Factory Outlets are significant for consumers as they get to own a brand at a value which is affordable. Therefore, the thrill of being a proud owner of a brand, which was hitherto out of their reach due to its price, is the benefit what consumers derive.

Retail Factory Outlets have become distinct shopping destinations with distinct audiences.

BRAND AVENUE offers brand at discounts and provide treatment and shopping experience that customers do deserve.
